MANAGEMENT'S DISCUSSION OF FUND PERFORMANCE – (Unaudited)

Kovitz Investment Group, LLC launched the Green Owl Intrinsic Value Fund (the “Fund”) with the goal of seeking long-term capital appreciation through high risk-adjusted returns. Relying on a fundamental, research-driven process, the Fund strives to build a diversified portfolio of equity investments through the purchase of competitively advantaged and financially strong companies at prices substantially less than our estimate of their intrinsic values.

As long-term investors, our research process emphasizes the appraisal of factors that we believe matter most to a business’s long-term success. These include the quality of the business, the strength of the balance sheet, the predictability of the cash flows, and the ability of the management team to allocate capital intelligently and judiciously. We believe these attributes are the most reliable predictors of a company’s ability to maximize intrinsic value on a per share basis.

Broadly speaking, our strategy is to own a relatively concentrated portfolio of the very best ideas we can find – essentially, stocks we believe to be undervalued with enduring competitive advantages that can generate sustainable free cash flow and have strong balance sheets. We are agnostic as to the timing, but believe that our disciplined approach to security selection along with the patience to ride out, and take advantage of, market volatility will ultimately lead to more than satisfactory results.

Overall, we remain optimistic about the long-term outlook for the Fund, where the valuation of its holdings, in aggregate, is significantly lower than that of the overall market. The wide valuation disparities that characterize the current market offer significant opportunities for active management. We believe that patience, persistence, and a long-term investment horizon are essential to long-term investment success. We encourage our shareholders to take a similar view.

Market and Performance Summary

For the fiscal year ending October 31, 2016, the Fund returned 3.65%. In comparison, our benchmark, the S&P 500 Index, gained 4.51% during the same period. Since inception on December 28, 2011, the Fund has compounded at a rate of 11.53% annually, versus 14.00% annually for the S&P 500.

While slightly underperforming our benchmark for the year, we began to see a shift in investor sentiment towards the latter half of the fiscal year. Up until this time, the combination of modest U.S. economic growth and low interest rates caused investors to search for yield in the equity markets to the exclusion of almost any other attribute. As a consequence, stocks perceived as defensive (e.g. Consumer Staples/Utilities) with “bond-like” characteristics (i.e. attractive dividend yields) outperformed most any business with even a whiff of cyclicity. As history has shown, whenever investors clamor for certain stocks with certain attractive near-term prospects to the exclusion of price, the euphoria eventually outstrips the reality. Over the summer, we urged caution and suggested that there’s danger in thinking you’re defensively positioned when you overpay. While correctly assessing the range of a company’s future growth prospects is essential for any investor to be successful, we think the price paid for that prospective growth is the more important driver of long-term performance. Said differently, at one price, a potential investment may offer substantial investment merit. At a higher price, the same investment may offer only heartache.

As the year progressed and interest rates started to move higher (unthinkable only a few months before), excitement over supposed safe stocks appeared to wane. What had been the best performing sectors became the weakest while supposedly riskier cyclical sectors became some of the best performing. To us, this turn in performance came down to the fact that valuation – what a business sells for in relation to its intrinsic value – finally was relevant again. In other words, more cheaply valued stocks finally did better than more richly valued ones. At long-last, valuation parameters mattered and acted as a catalyst for price movement just like it has done for most of our investing careers.

We have long argued that stock price movements over the last few years were not driven by the valuation of the underlying businesses and did not necessarily mirror the fundamentals or economic prospects of the underlying businesses. Price momentum, where expensive stocks continued to get more expensive and cheap stocks seemed to get ever cheaper, played a bigger role in determining stock price movements than valuation. Investors had also appeared to focus way too much on how much the company decided to pay out to shareholders in the form of a dividend. A dividend payment is just a capital allocation decision. We believe the intrinsic value of a company's stock should be based solely on the amount of cash it generates, not on whether management chooses to allocate a larger or smaller portion of that cash towards a dividend. We have felt that this type of investment landscape was unsustainable and we may now be at an inflection point where math and economics will finally trump momentum and the chase for yield.

In the meantime, our job is to continue to identify companies that are unappreciated by the market and whose shares are undervalued. A contrarian approach – avoiding recently expensive securities and favoring recently cheap securities – may be uncomfortable in the short run, but it can be a sound way to generate outperformance in the long run. Our job is to endure the emotional discomfort of deviating from the crowd, which we believe sets the stage for our style of investing to continue to work over time. The bedrock of our philosophy is that price matters. Our clients would be poorly served if we chose to simply pile into whatever shares had appreciated the most over recent years, ignoring price, valuation, and underlying fundamentals. We believe this is a time when paying calm, careful, and deliberate attention to the changing investment landscape can have a tremendous payoff.

We remain focused on the careful and patient application of our investment criteria and valuation requirements. We are more concerned with the risk of suffering a permanent loss of capital than about the risk of missing opportunities, especially those that are short-term in nature. Our bottom-up research emphasizes business quality, industry structures, growth opportunities, management skill and corporate culture. It is further augmented by our assessment of the company's ability to sustain earnings power over the long haul through an understanding of its competitive advantages, business model and management's proficiency in the allocation of capital. We use absolute, rather than relative, methods to estimate companies' intrinsic values and we use the movement of market prices around these intrinsic value estimates to construct and manage a portfolio of high-quality businesses that have the potential to create sustained shareholder value over many years.

Thank you for your continued support and trust in our ability to manage your investment in the Fund.

Federal Income Taxes – The Fund makes no provision for federal income or excise tax. The Fund has qualified and intends to qualify each year as a regulated investment company (“RIC”) under subchapter M of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, as amended, by complying with the requirements applicable to RICs and by distributing substantially all of its taxable income. The Fund also intends to distribute sufficient net investment income and net capital gains, if any, so that it will not be subject to excise tax on undistributed income and gains. If the required amount of net investment income or gains is not distributed, the Fund could incur a tax expense.

As of and during the year ended October 31, 2016, the Fund did not have a liability for any unrecognized tax benefits. The Fund recognizes interest and penalties, if any, related to unrecognized tax benefits as income tax expense on the statement of operations. The Fund is subject to examination by U.S. federal tax authorities for the last three tax years and the interim tax period since then. During the period, the Fund did not incur any interest or penalties.

Expenses – Expenses incurred by the Trust that do not relate to a specific fund of the Trust are allocated to the individual funds based on each fund’s relative net assets or other appropriate basis (using procedures approved by the Board).

Security Transactions and Related Income – The Fund follows industry practice and records security transactions on the trade date for financial reporting purposes. The specific identification method is used for determining gains or losses for financial statements and income tax purposes. Dividend income is recorded on the ex-dividend date and interest income is recorded on an accrual basis. Discounts and premiums on securities purchased are amortized or accreted using the effective interest method.

Dividends and Distributions – The Fund intends to distribute substantially all of its net investment income, net realized long-term capital gains and its net realized short-term capital gains, if any, to its shareholders on at least an annual basis. Dividends to shareholders, which are determined in accordance with income tax regulations, are recorded on the ex-dividend date. The treatment for financial reporting purposes of distributions made to shareholders during the year from net investment income or net realized capital gains may differ from their ultimate treatment for federal income tax purposes. These differences are caused primarily by differences in the timing of the recognition of certain components of income, expense or realized capital gain for federal income tax purposes. Where such differences are permanent in nature, they are reclassified in the components of net assets based on their ultimate characterization for federal income tax purposes. Any such reclassifications will have no effect on net assets, results of operations or net asset values per share of the Fund. There were no such material reclassifications made as of October 31, 2016.

Written Options – The Fund may write covered call options on equity securities or futures contracts that the Fund is eligible to purchase to extend a holding period to obtain long-term capital gain treatment, to earn premium income, to assure a definite price for a security it has considered selling, or to close out options previously purchased. The Fund may write covered call options if, immediately thereafter, not more than 30% of its net assets would be committed to such transactions. A call option gives the holder (buyer) the right to purchase a security or futures contract at a specified price (the exercise price) at any time until a certain date (the expiration date). A call option is “covered” if the Fund owns the underlying security subject to the call option at all times during the option period, or to the extent that some or all of the risk of the option has been offset by another option. When the Fund writes a covered call option, it maintains a segregated position within its account with its Custodian or as otherwise required by the rules of the exchange of the underlying security, cash or liquid portfolio securities in an amount not less than the exercise price at all times while the option is outstanding. See Note 4 for additional disclosures.

The Fund will receive a premium from writing a call option, which increases the Fund’s return in the event the option expires unexercised or is closed out at a profit. The amount of the premium will reflect, among other things, the relationship of the market price of the underlying security to the exercise price of the option and the remaining term of the option. However, there is no assurance that a closing transaction can be effected at a favorable price. During the option period, the covered call writer has, in return for the premium received, given up the opportunity for capital appreciation above the exercise price should the market price of the underlying security increase, but has retained the risk of loss should the price of the underlying security decline.

The Fund may write put options on equity securities and futures contracts that the Fund is eligible to purchase to earn premium income or to assure a definite price for a security if it is considering acquiring the security at a lower price than the current market price or to close out options previously purchased. The Fund may not write a put option if, immediately thereafter, more than 25% of its net assets would be committed to such transactions. A put option gives the holder of the option the right to sell, and the writer has the obligation to buy, the underlying security at the exercise price at any time during the option period. The operation of put options in other respects is substantially identical to that of call options. When the Fund writes a put option, it maintains a segregated position within its account with the Custodian of cash or liquid portfolio securities in an amount not less than the exercise price at all times while the put option is outstanding.

The Fund will receive a premium from writing a put option, which increases the Fund's return in the event the option expires unexercised or is closed out at a profit. The amount of the premium will reflect, among other things, the relationship of the market price of the underlying security to the exercise price of the option and the remaining term of the option. The risks involved in writing put options include the risk that a closing transaction cannot be effected at a favorable price and the possibility that the price of the underlying security may fall below the exercise price, in which case the Fund may be required to purchase the underlying security at a higher price than the market price of the security at the time the option is exercised, resulting in a potential capital loss unless the security subsequently appreciates in value. During the year ended October 31, 2016, the Fund utilized covered call options to extend the holding period to obtain long-term capital gain treatment and to take advantage of the option premium to garner a higher exit price than would have been available by immediately selling the stock.

NOTE 3. SECURITIES VALUATION AND FAIR VALUE MEASUREMENTS

Fair value is defined as the price that the Fund would receive upon selling an investment in an orderly transaction to an independent buyer in the principal or most advantageous market of the investment. GAAP established a three-tier hierarchy to maximize the use of observable market data and minimize the use of unobservable inputs and to establish classification of fair value measurements for disclosure purposes.

Inputs refer broadly to the assumptions that market participants would use in pricing the asset or liability, including assumptions about risk (the risk inherent in a particular valuation technique used to measure fair value including items such as a pricing model and/or the risk inherent in the inputs to the valuation technique). Inputs may be observable or unobservable. Observable inputs are inputs that reflect the assumptions market participants would use in pricing the asset or liability developed based on market data obtained from sources independent of the reporting entity. Unobservable inputs are inputs that reflect the reporting entity's own assumptions about the assumptions market participants would use in pricing the asset or liability developed based on the best information available in the circumstances. Various inputs are used in determining the value of the Fund's investments. These inputs are summarized in the three broad levels listed below.

- Level 1 – unadjusted quoted prices in active markets for identical investments and/or registered investment companies where the value per share is determined and published and is the basis for current transactions for identical assets or liabilities at the valuation date
- Level 2 – other significant observable inputs (including, but not limited to, quoted prices for an identical security in an inactive market, quoted prices for similar securities, interest rates, prepayment speeds, credit risk, etc.)
- Level 3 – significant unobservable inputs (including the Fund's own assumptions in determining fair value of investments based on the best information available)

The inputs used to measure fair value may fall into different levels of the fair value hierarchy. In such cases, for disclosure purposes, the level in the fair value hierarchy within which the fair value measurement falls in its entirety, is determined based on the lowest level input that is significant to the fair value measurement in its entirety.

Equity securities, including common stocks and exchange-traded funds, that are traded on any stock exchange are generally valued at the last quoted sale price on the security's primary exchange. Lacking a last sale price, an exchange-traded security is generally valued at its last bid price. Securities traded in the NASDAQ over-the-counter market are generally valued at the NASDAQ Official Closing Price. When using the market quotations and when the market is considered active, the security is classified as a Level 1 security. In the event that market quotations are not readily available or are considered unreliable due to market or other events, the Fund values its securities and other assets at fair value in accordance with policies established by and under the general supervision of the Board. Under these policies, the securities will be classified as Level 2 or 3 within the fair value hierarchy, depending on the inputs used.

Investments in open-end mutual funds, including money market mutual funds, are generally priced at the ending net asset value (“NAV”) provided by the service agent of the funds. These securities are categorized as Level 1 securities.

Written option contracts in which the Fund invests are generally traded on an exchange. The options in which the Fund invests are generally valued at the last trade price as provided by a pricing service. If the last sale price is not available, the options will be valued at the mean of the last bid and ask prices. The options will generally be categorized as Level 1 securities. If the Fund decides that a price provided by the pricing service does not accurately reflect the fair value of the securities, when prices are not readily available from a pricing service, or when restricted or illiquid securities are being valued, securities are valued at fair value as determined by the Adviser, in conformity with policies adopted by and subject to review of the Board. These securities will generally be categorized as Level 3 securities.

In accordance with the Trust’s valuation policies, the Adviser is required to consider all appropriate factors relevant to the value of securities for which it has determined other pricing sources are not available or reliable as described above. No single standard exists for determining fair value, because fair value depends upon the circumstances of each individual case. As a general principle, the current fair value of an issue of securities being valued by the Adviser would be the amount which the Fund might reasonably expect to receive for them upon their current sale. Methods which are in accordance with this principle may, for example, be based on (i) a multiple of earnings; (ii) a discount from market of a similar freely traded security (including a derivative security or a basket of securities traded on other markets, exchanges or among dealers); or (iii) yield to maturity with respect to debt issues, or a combination of these and other methods. Fair value pricing is permitted if, in the Adviser’s opinion, the validity of market quotations appears to be questionable based on factors such as evidence of a thin market in the security based on a small number of quotations, a significant event occurs after the close of a market but before a Fund’s NAV calculation that may affect a security’s value, or the Adviser is aware of any other data that calls into question the reliability of market quotations.

The following is a summary of the inputs used to value the Fund’s investments as of October 31, 2016:

Assets	Valuation Inputs

The Fund did not hold any investments during the reporting period in which significant unobservable inputs were used in determining fair value; therefore, no reconciliation of Level 3 securities is included for this reporting period. The Trust recognizes transfers between fair value hierarchy levels at the reporting period end. There were no transfers between any levels for the year ended October 31, 2016 and the previous reporting period end.

NOTE 5. ADVISER FEES AND OTHER TRANSACTIONS

Under the terms of the management agreement, on behalf of the Fund (the “Agreement”), the Adviser manages the Fund’s investments subject to approval by the Board. As compensation for its management services, the Fund is obligated to pay the Adviser a fee computed and accrued daily and paid monthly at an annual rate of 1.00% of the average daily net assets of the Fund. For the year ended October 31, 2016, the Adviser earned a fee of $577,767 from the Fund before the reimbursement described below. At October 31, 2016, the Fund owed the Adviser $37,433.

Prior to January 1, 2016, the Fund’s investment adviser was Kovitz Investment Group, LLC (“KIG”). On January 1, 2016, Focus Financial Partners, LLC (“Focus”) acquired substantially all of the assets of KIG, which concurrently sold substantially all of its assets to the Adviser, an indirect wholly-owned subsidiary of Focus.

The Adviser has contractually agreed to waive its management fee and/or reimburse expenses so that total fund operating expenses, excluding interest, taxes, brokerage commissions, other expenditures which are capitalized in accordance with GAAP, other extraordinary expenses not incurred in the ordinary course of the Fund’s business, dividend expense on short sales, and expenses that the Fund has incurred but did not actually pay because of an expense offset arrangement, if applicable, incurred by the Fund in any fiscal year, do not exceed 1.10% of the Fund’s average daily net assets through February 28, 2018. The operating expense limitation also excludes any fees and expenses of acquired funds.

For the year ended October 31, 2016, fees totaling $173,710 were waived by the Adviser. Each fee waiver or expense reimbursement by the Adviser with respect to the Fund is subject to repayment by the Fund within the three fiscal years following the fiscal year in which that particular fee waiver or expense reimbursement occurred, provided that the Fund is able to make the repayment without exceeding the expense limitation in effect at the time of the fee waiver or expense reimbursement and any expense limitation in place at the time of repayment.

The amounts subject to repayment by the Fund pursuant to the aforementioned conditions are as follows:

SUMMARY OF FUND EXPENSES (Unaudited)

As a shareholder of the Fund, you incur ongoing costs, including management fees and other Fund expenses. This example is intended to help you understand your ongoing costs (in dollars) of investing in the Fund and to compare these costs with the ongoing costs of investing in other mutual funds.

The example is based on an investment of $1,000 invested at the beginning and held for the entire period from May 1, 2016 to October 31, 2016.

Actual Expenses

The first line of the table below provides information about actual account values and actual expenses. You may use the information in this line, together with the amount you invested, to estimate the expenses that you paid over the period. Simply divide your account value by $1,000 (for example, an $8,600 account value divided by $1,000 = $8.60), then multiply the result by the number in the first line under the heading entitled “Expenses Paid During Period” to estimate the expenses you paid on your account during this period.

Hypothetical Example for Comparison Purposes

The second line of the table below provides information about hypothetical account values and hypothetical expenses based on the Fund’s actual expense ratio and an assumed rate of return of 5% per year before expenses, which is not the Fund’s actual return. The hypothetical account values and expenses may not be used to estimate the actual ending account balance or expenses you paid for the period. You may use this information to compare the ongoing costs of investing in the Fund and other funds. To do so, compare this 5% hypothetical example with the 5% hypothetical examples that appear in the shareholder reports of the other funds.

Please note that the expenses shown in the table are meant to highlight your ongoing costs only. Therefore, the second line of the table below is useful in comparing ongoing costs only and will not help you determine the relative costs of owning different funds.

Green Owl Intrinsic Value Fund	Beginning Account Value May 1, 2016	Ending Account Value October 31, 2016	Expenses Paid During Period* May 1, 2016 – October 31, 2016
Actual	$1,000.00	$1,043.60	$5.67
Hypothetical	$1,000.00	$1,019.59	$5.60

* Expenses are equal to the Fund’s annualized expense ratio of 1.10%, multiplied by the average account value over the period, multiplied by 184/366 (to reflect the one-half year period).

Assumes a 5% return before expenses.
